General Library Spectrum Abstract

General Library conducted a seminar on 06/02/2024, as part of R. Sankar memorial Spectrum seminar series 2023-2024. Resource person Dr. SUDHI S. VIJAYAN, Assistant Professor & Head, Dept. of Library & Information Science, University of Kerala delivered keynote address on the topic 'Digital Resources for Teaching and Learning'. The summary of the seminar is as follows.

Sources of information are outlets or channels through which data, facts, and knowledge are obtained. They are crucial for research, learning, decision-making and staying informed. Sources of information can be classified into primary, secondary and tertiary categories. Digital Resources were mainly divided into Open Access Digital Resources and Closed Access Digital Resources. Open Educational Resources (OER) are educational materials openly available for use, sharing, and modification. These include textbooks, courses, and multimedia resources that are freely accessible. Open access digital resources include Open Access Journals, Open Data, Open Source Software and Public Domain Content. Subscription-Based Content: Digital resources that require a paid subscription for access, such as academic journals, premium streaming services, and certain online databases. Closed access digital resources include Proprietary Software, Premium Content Platforms, Password-Protected Content and Paywalled Articles and Digital Libraries with Access Controls.

Discussed about Open access search methods, modes, and tools. Provided detailed information regarding Google Scholar, BASE (Bielefeld Academic Search Engine), Research Gate, Academia.edu, arXiv, Directory of Open Access Journals (DOAJ), CORE (Connecting Repositories), Public Library of Science (PLOS), Internet Archive and Open Educational Resources (OER) Platforms like, OER Commons & MERLOT. Major information resources provided by INFLIBNET like Shodhganga, Shodhgangotri, Shodhshuddhi, INFED, E- Shodhsindhu, N-LIST, Vidwan, e-PG Pathshala, UGC MOOCs (Online Courses), e-Pathya (Offline Access) and VIDYA-MITRA were discussed in detail.
